Letter from Hon. Daniel S. Dickinson to the Local Democrats
of Wisconsin.

DISMANTLED, Sept. 13, 1893.

GENTLEMEN:—I am highly gratified to receive your invitation to attend the War Democracy to attend and address their Mass Convention at Janesville, on the 16th inst., and I would afford no higher gratification still could I comply with your request. But too little time, too great distance and absorbing engagements will not permit me the privilege. I am gratified in your movement, and this saying is no mere formal phrase, for I am rejoiced beyond power of expression that another effort is to be made to assert the true Democratic principle and vindicate a name so honored in history, so dear to the lover of equal rights—so replete with glowing traditions, so redolent of glorious triumph, from the stately influence of oppressed domination.

Rome once sat upon her seven hills and her basins, sacred to triumph, a subjugated world; not a change came over the spirit of her dreams, and she came a land of fiddlers and dancers. The name of Democracy has been a synonym for progress, equality and other sublime political truths. It has never been employed to designate a peace party in war, nor a war party in peace, but it has at all times been alive and sensitive to its country's honor, and interpreted its defenses, and it will be an evil day for its future hopes when it is found to mean a combination of politicians who value party more than country. It lays the ax at the root of the tree of monopoly and privilege, and labors to advance the political equality of man. Its theories shake the tyrant upon his throne and console the captive when the iron enters into his soul.

It would strike off all fetters which despotism has forged for the limbs of labor, and raise up the masses to the station which Heaven designed them to fill.

In short, in its benign mission, it brings peace on earth and good will to men.

True Democracy was introduced in the war of 1812—a war forced upon us by the insidious of a foreign power which just now seems to have forgotten the lessons its lessons it conferred.

Mr. Madison, then President, was patriot and statesman, but a stranger to war, and he entered upon the contest without adequate preparation.

That struggle was a more skilful compared with this, and yet, in proportion to what was done, our mistakes and reverses were greater than now. But the old Democratic party of that day, with all true country-loving men, stood sleepless upon the watch-towers, supporting the administration with all its energies in sustaining the national honor, in aiding it with men and money for a vigorous prosecution of the war, and the success of the war.

At the commencement of the war, the old Federal party was in the very heyday of hope, the growth of its power in many of the States. It possessed an aristocracy of wealth, of talent and of letters which rendered it truly formidable and imposing. It brought all these to the resistance of the measures of the administration, and seriously embarrassed its action. Like its modern and younger party, it was a party of peace. It refused to support the government, but to oppose the administration, whose acts it pronounced "unconstitutional"—the usual resort of neoclassical demagogues.

It was opposed to the draft, and discouraged volunteering. Every resource of our army was multiplied, and success beset it; and it sought to create division and dissension amongst the masses, and by the same means its overthrow was accomplished.

But the people, under the lead of the Democratic party, rallied around the standard of the administration, and the standard of their country—the war was prosecuted with energy. In due time victories were won and our army was victorious.

Our army was victorious, and our country was saved. The war was closed in a blaze of glory at New Orleans. And where is the old Federal party? More extinct in political history than the Mastodon is in nature, for even the quagmires of old deposits, and fossils no organic remains. So retributive and terrible was the popular vengeance that it left no traces to show upon what its wrath had fallen. History is now repeating itself.

The combination of copperhead politicians, like the nucleus spirit of old, has entered into the Democratic name and organization, and with far less manliness than its ancient Federal predecessor, is practicing the same experiment upon patriotic endurance. It is alive to the support of the government, but brim full of conscientious opposition to the administration. It is opposed to the dissolution of the Union, but it desires a speedy peace with a rebellion which declares dissolution its only terms. It is for a vigorous prosecution of the war, but opposed to furnishing either men or money for that purpose.

It is opposed to the admission of existing colored soldiers, because they may chance to get "between the wind and its nobility," and to the raising of white ones, because the "black Republican administration is carrying on a war for the negro."

It is the draft because it is unconstitutional, and discourages volunteering because it is a wicked and unjust war on our part, which ought to be suspended by armistice, and succeeded by proposing to armed rebellion liberal terms of peace. These and numerous other shifts, devices, wriggles and postures, are paraded to cover the schemes of a set of disloyal politicians, who aim at a leadership, and prefer a party which they can ride and run, in sympathy with the rebellion, to the integrity of the Union, the vindication of the laws, or the triumph of our country's Constitution. Acting politically in concert with a rebellion which threatens our nation's life, and receiving the plaudits of its public press, laboring beside a British aristocracy and French junkies in affording it aid and comfort, and contributing to its continuance in its work of desolation and murder, this kind of graceless politicians, calling themselves together like clothed vipers, Christian themselves par excellence the Democratic party, and hiss out "traitor" to every Democrat who adheres to the true principles of Democracy, and the principles of Jefferson, the prince of Jacobins.

It is only to be regretted that any portion of the Democratic masses should be thus deluded and misled to follow an honored name when robbed of every noble attribute which made it estimable, or commendable to the lovers of popular liberty. But "time at last sets all things even," and this error will be corrected. As for the huge and brazen leaders who are playing political push pin with rebellion in the name of Democracy, and encouraging it to endure, they will meet their appropriate reward in the curses and execrations of bereaved fathers and weeping mothers, and wailing maidens, now; and hereafter in the scorn and contempt of all mankind.

When this heinous and brazen rebellion, already pined and rotting, shall glow down, the copperhead democracy will fall with it, and sink so deep that "no bubble will ever rise to tell where it was blown."

As true Democrats, my friends, we have no time to lose in pursuing, and that we should make it the corner stone of our government, and aid and encourage it in putting down the rebellion by the force of arms and in vindicating the authority of the government. But while we should make it the corner stone of our government, let us reject the realization of the fundamental democratic idea, that politically, "all men were created equal."

Let us, I pray you, first rescue the cause of humanity's holy hope from the conflagration which threatens it, and when once it is secured to our posterity, determine by political strife if we will, who shall govern it. Such a course becomes the patriotic and the true Democrat, who confides in the principles of his creed and loves his country.

Congratulating you upon the brilliant successes which have for months attended the heroic army, remembering that in a noble and enduring peace awaits us at no distant day, by the overthrow of the rebellion, and desiring no other, remain in the bonds of that faith which every true Democrat reveres.

Sincerely yours,
D. S. DICKINSON.

THE REBEL VICTORY WILL CARRY OFF FOR THE TRAITORS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.

Richmond papers of the 22d have been received here. The Enquirer in a leader, headed "Victory in Georgia," says Charleston and Chattanooga are the only points where the enemy present the least appearance of fight.

Defeated at Chattanooga and driven back on Nashville, the Vallandigham men would carry the election in Ohio next Monday with little difficulty. The peace men in the United States would once more assert their manhood and speak out as they did before the late disasters had choked their utterances; but it is not among the peace men of the United States that a victory at Chattanooga would most tell upon the cause. Here at home its effect would be the greatest. It would reanimate our people. The army needs but little reanimation, but the people have not experienced the same hardships the army has, and they are more easily made despondent.

The army never desponds of the Republic, because it is able to hold its fortresses, and misfortunes also, but some of the people are so busy discussing the probabilities of a financial bankruptcy that disasters overcome them. A victory is wanted by the currency.

Minnesota Episcopal Church Intelligence.

Bishop Whipple has recently had the opportunity of securing a valuable library and philosophical apparatus for the Church College at Fairbault. A Southern College, which was broken up by the rebellion, has been obliged to sell its library, &c., to pay its debts. The trustees were church men, and desiring to save the library to the church, were willing to sell it at a nominal price to the Diocese of Minnesota. Good judges of opinion it is worth $15,000; the Bishop buys it for $2,500. The only question is, will those who have followed the Diocese and Bishop with their prayers and alms, aid him in securing this valuable library to the church in Minnesota?

Nothing would so gladden the Bishop's heart and cheer him in his work. Any of his friends in this State or in other States, who are willing to aid the Bishop, will please send their gifts to Mr. H. T. Welles, Treasurer of the Diocese, Minneapolis, or to Bishop Whipple, Fairbault, and will receive the thanks and prayers of the church.

Grief or Widows.—A young Tippecanoe widow, Molly McPhee, I think, called here, was courted and actually had an offer from Toussie O'Shane, on her way to her husband's funeral. "She accepted, of course," said Grossman. "She didn't," said Smith. "Toussie dear," says she, "ye're too late; Pat Sweeney upon it that I would have him a decent time after poor McPhee was under board."

"Well," said Grossman, "widows of all nations are much alike. There was a Dutch woman, whose husband, Dick Von Prunk, died and left her, in considerable. He was buried, on Gorpie Island. Folks said that grief would kill that widow. She had a large figure of wood carved that looked very much like her husband, and constantly kept it in bed for several months. In about half a year she became interested in a young shoemaker, who took the length of her foot, and finally married her. He had visited the widow not more than a fortnight, when the servant told her they were not of kindling stuff, and asked what was to be done. After a pause the widow replied in a very quiet manner: "Maybe it is well enough now to split up old Von Prunk with us up stairs."

A young lady in St. Louis has lately come into the possession of the sum of fifty thousand dollars by the death of a rebel Colonel in Alabama. It is said that the fortunate legatee was once betrothed to the officer who thus remembers her.

The word "canteen" has had a curious history. It is perhaps the only word in our language, which, originally English, passed into a foreign tongue, and was afterward taken back in a modified form. As originally spoken by the Saxons, it was simply tin can, but the Gaul, as is his wont, placing the noun before the adjective, and pronouncing the letter i as e, brought out as can tin, pronounced can-tin. Adopting a thousand other French military terms, the dull Englishmen took back their own original word in a new shape, without any inquiries on the subject, and hence we now say canteen instead of tin can.

A gentleman who had been spending the evening with a few friends, looking at his watch just after midnight, said: "It is morning; I must bid you good night, gentlemen."

Obtaining a Wife under False Pretences, and a Husband without Knowing it.

An amusing marriage incident occurred yesterday at Justice Storey's office. It appears that a Polish woman came before the court for company with a German friend with the intention of having a warrant taken out and served upon a woman who had committed an assault, and battery on her person. The lady in question was not very familiar with the English language, and to every interrogation replied yes, yes. While the necessary papers were being made out in the criminal case, the gay Dutchman and escort of a female, suggested to Justice that it was their desire to be united in the holy bonds of matrimony, which of course pleased the magistrate—and he forthwith directed the gay lawyer to step out and bring in some person to act as witness of the interesting ceremony.

In the meantime the Justice proceeded to question the fair lady as to her desires to be joined in wedlock. Upon asking her if she wished to marry the young German, she said: "Yes, yes."

"Are you legally qualified to become his wife?"

"Yes, yes."

"You will agree to cherish and protect him?"

"Yes, yes."

Upon the return of the Justice with his witnesses the Justice proceeded to unite them in the solemn manner due such an occasion and "in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided."

After the ceremony the newly made wife wished to learn the amount of the fees, and insisted upon paying them instead of permitting her legal protector to balance the account.

One of the witnesses suggested that the loving pair should seal their union with a kiss, which being interpreted to the lady she positively demurred. Upon being informed that she was the wife of the German and there certainly could be no impropriety at such innocent amusement, she again demurred, said she was not his wife, she didn't want any husband, but she had come there to see a woman, and supposed the business which had been done and for which she had paid the money was for that purpose and no other.

The Justice returned the fees and the two departed—the lady taking the street and the lady another direction, considerably chop-fallen.—Woman Rep.

—A raven recently flew into the house of a gentleman of Hendon, and stole a gold pin from his cravat. Here is a chance for a new opera.

—The President has pardoned and returned to duty Capt. B. J. McMahon, of the Seventy-first Pennsylvania, who was convicted and sentenced to be shot for killing Capt. Andrew McManus, of the Sixty-ninth Pennsylvania, near Fairmount, last May, in consideration of the gallant conduct of the accused while a prisoner at Gettysburg, and on the recommendation of Gen. Meade.

—The Washington Republican says that Gen. Schenck will leave the army and take his seat in Congress, where he succeeds Vallandigham.

—Secretary Seward is absent from Washington city, on a visit to his son, Col. W. H. Seward, Jun., who is very ill.

—Queen Victoria has returned to England from Germany.

—The case of Lieut. Col. Powell, of the Virginia loyal volunteers, who was reported confined as a criminal in Richmond, is now under investigation. The rebel authorities have been interrogated respecting him, and if the reply is not satisfactory, a rebel officer of equal rank will be dealt with accordingly.

—John Morgan will be held for exchange for Gen. Neil Dow.

—"Dirigo"—I direct—is inscribed on the coat of arms of Maine. It is a good lead she now gives in the fall elections. Ohio and Pennsylvania will follow her lead. New York will correct her gross blunder of last November; and Minnesota will fill up the gap with a victory that will out-Maine Maine.

—Union League of East Tennessee troops are forming in the army of the Cumberland.

—Inquiries respecting the placing of Gen. McClellan on retired pay show that an act of Congress provides that when an army officer shall have remained unemployed for six months, all his allowances for servants and horses shall cease. The application of this law to retired McClellan is the basis of his reported retirement, which he shares with Gens. Fremont, Butler and others.

Letter from Hon. Daniel S. Dick-

inson to the Local Democrats

of Wisconsin.

Wisconsin, Sept. 14, 1893.

GENTLEMEN:—I have been gratified to receive your invitation to attend the War Democracy to be held at the 10th inst., and it would afford me higher gratification still could I comply with your request. But too little time and too great distance and absorbing engagements will not permit me the privilege.

I say I am gratified in your movement,

and this saying is no more formal phrase,

for I am rejoiced beyond power of expression that another effort is to be made to assert the true Democratic principle and vindicate a name so honored in history, so dear to the lover of equal rights

—so replete with glowing traditions, so resolent of glorious triumphs, from the slavery influence of opprobrious continuation.

For once sat upon your seven hills and here I have seen the true Democratic principle in its true and noble

sublimity of its aims, and a change came over the spirit of the day, and the name of Democracy has been a synonym for progress, equality and other

sublimity of its aims, and a change came

over the spirit of the day, and the name of Democracy has been a synonym for progress, equality and other

sublimity of its aims, and a change came

over the spirit of the day, and the name of Democracy has been a synonym for progress, equality and other

sublimity of its aims, and a change came

over the spirit of the day, and the name of Democracy has been a synonym for progress, equality and other

sublimity of its aims, and a change came

over the spirit of the day, and the

THREE WORDS OF STRENGTH.

BY SCHILLER.

There are three lessons I would write—
Three words as with a burning pen,
In tracing of eternal light,
Upon the hearts of men.

Have hope. Though clouds envelop now,
And gladness hides her face in scorn,
Put thou the shadow from thy brow—
No night but hath its morn.

Have faith. Where'er thy bark is driven—
The calm'st of waters and the tempest's mirth—
Know this—God rules the hosts of heaven,
Th' inhabitants of earth.

Have love. Not love alone for thee,
But men thy brothers call,
And scatter, like burning sun,
Thy charities on all.

Thus grave these lessons on thy soul—
Hope, Faith and Love—and thou shalt find Strength when life's surges roudest roll,
Light when thou dost weend blind.

Letter from Mr. Beecher.

From the Independent.

MILAN, August, 1863.

To Milan, then, we went upon a day so hot that we were glad it was Milan, and not Rome. It was nearly ten at night when we entered it. The first thought the next morning was the Cathedral. It was but a few steps from the Hotel de Ville. Familiar with every external feature of it, from pictures, prints and photographs, we drew near it with some fear of disappointment. The exterior was, however, extremely well. Its exterior exerts admiration—not but awe. The infinity of detail spoils it when you are near; but at a little distance, when the general flow of vertical lines can be felt, and not the details of the Greek, which are particularly, it becomes more and more satisfying.

The first tendency of your mind to charge it with ostentation and vanity of display is much corrected after you have climbed to its very top, walked over all its roof and found how conscientiously every hidden part of this infinity of details is executed.

There are some fifteen thousand flowers and scrolls upon the flying buttresses and other parts, and scarcely any one of them is not a masterpiece of art.

There are fifteen hundred bas-reliefs, and places for more than seven thousand statues, all but three thousand of which are filled. And yet, in places never to be seen at all from below, and only with extreme difficulty from the roof or tower, you shall find leaf, flower, feature, as minutely studied and as neatly executed as if it was a part of the Great Altar. It brought to me the legend of the Greek. When an artist was elaborately finishing the back part of the hair of a statue that was to be put far up on the point of the temple, some one said, "Since no one will ever see this back of the head, why do you finish it so carefully?" "Because the gods will see it." I never felt in the presence of Roman Catholic worship that they are doing it "as unto the Lord," but I do in the old architecture and painting.

But after all, the Duomo of Milan is not the style of architecture I should choose. It is regal, magnificent, gorgeous, but it is not, in style, and only by a process of reasoning does it become impressive. You must reduce the saliency of its parts, the solicitation of its particulars, until you perceive the whole—the great oneness which these myriad particulars compose. You must come to think of it as artist's work, and imagine it as a Christian offering to God. As, in a present of flowers, brilliant as they may be, both giver and receiver are more conscious of the sentiment than of the value of the gift. When you see the altar, it is removed, the tomb revealed, and lies in the folds of gorgeous robes, decked with all manner of precious stones. I did not choose to see it. That is not Borromeo. While on earth he was a gladiator, though a Catholic, and employed his whole means in the benefit of the miserable. And there can not be a greater falsification of his example than to exhibit him in costly robes and priceless jewels, that dwell uselessly in this dark cavern, feebly flashing out a doubtful lustre when candles light up the ghastly spectacle for the curiosity or superstition of morbid minds.

I made a pilgrimage to the great work of Leonardo da Vinci—the "Last Supper." It was painted at the end of the Refectory of the Convent of the church of St. Maria delle Grazie. It is scarcely more than the dead body of the living picture. Only the figure of Christ has yet some thing of that power of expression which must have belonged to every head when it stood in its pristine beauty. Examined by help of an opera glass, the Savior's head and face filled me with a shivering gladness. One might for a fleeting moment believe that he stood in his very presence.

I procured photographs of the original study for this head, which are even more affecting than the painting itself. This sublime work is to be visited as one would go to the tomb of a departed friend—it is a memorial of what once was the figure of Art.

The pictures in the Brera, and the original studies for their great pictures of the Italian masters in the Ambrosian Library, were of great interest. Nowhere else, perhaps, as well as here, can one —some before saints, some before the Virgin, some before the shrine in the dead language; the reverent bowings, kneelings and almost prostrations before sacred things—these, and all other parts of the ceremonial, went against my Protestant stomach. I strove to lay aside my education, not that I might accept this method of religion, but that I might at least come enough into sympathy with those who did look at it from their best standpoint. I partly succeeded. I know the force of training. If some particular emotion has been taught to arise on the presentation of a given object, that symbol will seem to excite or produce that feeling. Whether it be a doctrine or a picture, men are taught to ascribe to it as a cause, those experiences which are connected with it only by association.

A fervent and susceptible nature, quickened by imagination, will find in the services of the Church, and the numberless ordinances, what I can never perceive, and will be free from those repugnances and gross materiality which make one shudder before shrines, pictures, and crucifixes, with their shocking spectacles of material suffering. I can see but the vehicle. Let us charitably believe that hundreds scarcely notice that, but as through a glass darkly, behold the ineffable truths of religion. But I am constrained to believe that the whole tendency of the Catholic religion is not so much to raise up spiritual ideas out of physical symbols, as to reduce spiritual conceptions to a material form. The assumption is that man's weakness needs this address to his senses; but the result is that he seldom gets beyond his senses, and the power of generating spiritual ideas is limited, crippled, or destroyed wholly. These ceremonies are crutches which men seldom lay aside who have once used them.

The interior of the Milan Cathedral is most impressive. The line of vast columns which rise up into the dim heights of the nave of immense space, fill the mind with all manner of fancies. It is some thing as if in a clear night one lies down and looks up into the heavens. That comes nearer to an experience of being out of the body than any thing else that I know of; and to say that a cathedral once reminds you of it, is to give it great praise.

I went every day, in the morning, to see the sunlight gleam through the eastern panted windows, and every afternoon I returned to see the richer golden evening light stream through the western. As a life-long daily experience, I would not exchange my place for the fine out-door sunlight, spread upward, in the morning, over the whole glowing cope, and flashing over the fields with myriad colors from every dew drop. But, as an unusual experience, it deeply impressed me. I felt as if it were the flood of light preceding some angelic band. I wanted for a moment to say, "I have believed that I should hear some voice with messages out of the Great Infinite, announcing truths which, alas! I shall never come to us till we go forth to them!"

In the Cathedral lies buried Charles Borromeo. His shrine is memorable. In the body of the church, before the Great Altar, there is a circular railing, enclosing an opening of some twenty feet diameter in the floor, covered with wire-work. Through this you perceive directly that there is an apartment below. Going round to the side of the altar-space, you descend into the chapel, out of which opens a passage into the tomb-chapel of St. Borromeo.

Costly marble columns and walls of beautiful stone are dimly revealed by the ever-burning lamps. Arrested by a bar, you see the light gleam through the eastern panted windows, and every afternoon I returned to see the richer golden evening light stream through the western. As a life-long daily experience, I would not exchange my place for the fine out-door sunlight, spread upward, in the morning, over the whole glowing cope, and flashing over the fields with myriad colors from every dew drop. But, as an unusual experience, it deeply impressed me. I felt as if it were the flood of light preceding some angelic band. I wanted for a moment to say, "I have believed that I should hear some voice with messages out of the Great Infinite, announcing truths which, alas! I shall never come to us till we go forth to them!"

The war, by continued, can no longer be conducted as it has been. Our currency is so depreciated that it will soon cease to be available. I see but one remedy. Let no more paper money be issued. Let the whole Confederacy be divided into two classes—the combatants and the producers. As long as this war shall last every one of us must be satisfied with shelter, food and clothing and nothing else. The soldiers and officers, from the highest to the lowest, must fight without pay. Why should they need money when provided with necessities, and their families taken care of?

Let all the resources and productions of every farmer or planter be put at the disposal of the Government without pay. Let the President and every civil officer or employee have no salary. In fact, let every one of us be satisfied with shelter, food and clothing and nothing else. The soldiers and officers, from the highest to the lowest, must fight without pay. Why should they need money when provided with necessities, and their families taken care of?

In this way there would be no further increase of our national debt; in fact no currency would be necessary for the time being, but every one who should have confidence in his pocket would feel that they are good, and that he would have some thing to fall back upon when peace is declared.

It is on this principle that Frederick the Great, when the existence of Prussia was at stake, carried on successfully his seven years' war against such odds as the world had never seen before and never saw since. Berlin, his capital, was taken and sacked five or six times, and his whole territory almost turned into a wilderness, but he came out of that war without a cent of debt. Why? Because he seized upon the whole of Prussia, and forced every human being in it to contribute to its deliverance. He did not issue bonds, but parted with his silver spoons, and expected the same sacrifice from all his subjects.

He took every thing, the name of Prussia, and paid for nothing, we know with what glorious results. Should we adopt such a policy, which would instantly put a stop to the increase of our national debt, and would give the world the sublime assurance of our determination not to fall, together with the undeniable proof of the impossibility of our failing because of the very adoption of such a policy, the eight per cent bonds would rise to 120 and 130 in Europe. The faith of so heroic a nation would no longer be doubted. Those bonds would then be more eagerly sought after than gold, and with them we would procure every thing in the European markets. The North itself, which relies on our fast approaching bankruptcy, would despair of triumphing over the South, when transformed into a vast camp and a vast national workshop.

I have been agreeably disappointed in the common people of Italy. Something is to be subtracted from my favorable impression on account of the contrast between them and that most wretched of all populations, the laboring classes of Southern Switzerland. I was sick at heart at the condition of this people. The women are beasts of burden. The men are overworked. The very children seem prematurely old. I saw a woman at work in the fields even in France; but it was harvest work. In Switzerland I found them digging over dung-heaps, collecting manure in the woods, packing it in baskets on their backs, to the fields. I saw girls of thirteen or fourteen at work with teams of bullocks which they were driving, and in one case I saw a woman working at a cart with an ox. Aged people had neither dignity or serenity. It affected my spirits. I dreaded to look upon a comely young maiden, for I perceived all the hideous change that was to come upon her—when she should hobble about, a skinny and eyecore old hag, unfit to labor, but forced to it by the inexorable tyranny of poverty! When, then, I had crossed into Italy, I was as one in a new world. The common people seemed happy. They laughed and chatted; they returned my greeting with good-natured kindness. If there is not a grand future for Northern Italy, it will be because education and liberty are withheld from them. But they are a noble stock. Their brains are large, and their heads well organized. They have grand bodies, strong and well developed. I have not in all my travels seen a common people so much promise as these Italian people. And I am informed that facts do not belie these favorable appearances. I am bound to say, also, that I have been greatly disappointed in the appearance of the monks and priests in Roman Catholic countries. As a general rule, they have appeared to be clear-headed, intelligent, and sincere men. Only once or twice did we meet the legendary type of monk—round, fat and worldly. In Switzerland and in Northern Italy the general impression produced upon me by the priests has been highly favorable to them.

A New way to conduct the War.
A letter from "one of the ablest citizens of Louisiana" appears in the Columbia South Carolinian. It makes the following suggestion as to the best means of conducting the war in future, and in a general way shows how easy a war could be carried on if talking would do it.

Mosby, the Guerrilla.
From the Richmond Examiner.

A gentleman from Richmond has furnished us with a private letter from Col. Mosby, dated Sept. 3, from which we learn that "he was twice wounded in a fight last week near Alexandria, in the thigh and side; fortunately they are not dangerous, and he hopes soon to be able to return."

Ben. Palmer of Richmond was in the fight, and like all the rest of Mosby's men, acted with great gallantry. He would like to get about a dozen good men for recruits for his command. He prefers Marylanders, if he can get them;—if there are any gentlemen who would like to join Mosby, let them do so. He will be in Richmond in about ten days, and will take them on with him. His wounds are healing very fast as both bullets passed out.

It was an infamous lie the Yankees told about his taking the horses from a hearse.

In the last raid of Col. Mosby he met sixty-seven Yankees in the road with a high fence on each side, protecting 260 fine horses; his command, only twenty-five, he divided, 14 charging with him in front, and the rest circling round the Yankees in the rear. He took twelve prisoners and all the horses—the rest of the Yanks making good their escape. Here is offered a fine opportunity for the adventurous.

A country editor received a remittance, with a request to send the paper as long as the money lasted. He indulged in a bit of a spree, got broke, and respectfully announced to his subscriber that according to his own terms, his subscription was out.

We hear a good deal about suspending the habeas corpus; but when the Government catches a traitor, why doesn't it suspend the corpus and let the habeas go.

Marshall and Madison.
During her visit to this country in 1835, Harriet Martineau had interviews with Chief Justice Marshall and Ex-President Madison. Upon the subject of slavery both spoke freely.

The Chief Justice was eighty-three—as bright-eyed and warm-hearted as ever, while as dignified a judge as ever occupied the highest seat of the highest court of any country. He said he had seen Virginia the leading State for half his life, he had seen her become the second, and sink to be, I think, the fifth. Worse than this, there was no arresting her decline if her citizens did not put an end to slavery; and he saw no signs of any attention to do so. He had seen whole estates lapse into waste. He had seen agriculture exchanged for human stock-breeding; and he keenly felt the degradation.

The forest was returning over the fine old estates, and the wild creatures that had not been seen for generations were reappearing; numbers and wealth were declining, and education was degenerating. To Mr. Madison despair was not easy. He had a cheerful and sanguine temper, and if there was one thing rather than another which he had learned to consider secure, it was the Constitution, which he had so large a share in making. Yet he told me that he was nearly in despair, and that he had been quite so till the Colonization Society arose.

Rather than admit to himself that the South must be laid waste by a servile war, he strove to believe that millions of negroes could be transported to Africa and so be got rid of. I need not speak of the weakness of such a hope. What concerns us now is that he saw and described to me, when I was his guest, the dangers and horrors of the state of society in which he was living. He talked more of slavery than all other subjects together, returning to it morning, noon and night.

He said that the clergy perverted the Bible, because it was altogether against slavery; that the colored population was increasing faster than the white; and that the state of society was such as barely to permit slavery to exist.

Of the issue of the conflict, whenever it should occur, there could be, he said, no doubt. A society burdened with a slave system could make no permanent resistance to an unnumbered enemy; he was astonished at the fanaticism that blinded Southern men to so clear a certainty.

Chm. Union Republican State Com.

New Arrangement.

On account of my connection with the public service, and the utter impossibility of devoting any attention to either the editorial or business management of the Messenger during my absence, I have deemed it to be to the interest of myself and patron to leave the establishment to other parties for a limited period. I have accordingly done so; and until my return and subsequent assumption of the Messenger will be published and controlled by Messrs. FREDERICK A. EASTON, and "When this cruel war is over."

I expect to return and again greet my old friends and patrons, who have become so endeared to me by social and business associations extending through the past seven years.

A settlement of all outstanding accounts now becomes imperative. There are left in the hands of A. B. Stickney, Esq., who is fully authorized to collect the same.

The new arrangement went into effect on the first day of October, 1863.

A. B. STICKNEY.

STILLWATER, Oct. 10, 1863.

Special Notice to Enlisted Men.

Over one year ago, at a time when an effort was being made to secure enlistments for the Eighth and Ninth Regiments, the former proprietor of the Messenger proposed to furnish each family of volunteers with a gratuitous copy of the paper for one year—provided the publisher himself did not enter the service previous to the expiration of that period. The then publisher did enter the service some six months ago, but he has continued to furnish the paper to such families up to the present time. The former publisher deems his contract more than fulfilled, and as a change has now taken place in the proprietorship of the Messenger, the present is deemed the proper time to curtail this hitherto heavy expenditure. We shall take pleasure in furnishing this class of subscribers with the Messenger, but it can only be done in the usual way.

The Minnesota Evening Democrat.

We have received the first number of a new daily started in St. Paul on the 6th inst., with the above name. It is a six column paper of very creditable appearance, under the editorial direction of J. L. MacDonald.

As its name indicates, it is to be an evening paper, and in its salutatory it announces itself to be a candidate for public patronage as an organ of the Democratic party. Upon the subject of the war it says: "This paper will be in favor of yielding a cordial support to the government, and while we shall favor a vigorous prosecution of the war—for the restoration of the Union—as being at present the most humane policy, we shall always advocate the adoption of a policy by the government that will favor the return of the misguided people of the South to their allegiance. When the people of any State in rebellion propose to lay down their arms, with an expressed desire to return to the Union, we believe it to be the duty of the administration to afford them every facility to return, with the rights of the State unimpaired, holding individuals only responsible for whatever crimes they may have committed against the government."

Democratic Prophecy.

The new light of Democracy and the champion of "the misguided people of the South," who, it would seem, have been for the last two years a little lax in their allegiance—the Evening Democrat encourages the desponding Democrats of Minnesota thus:

The Democracy are everywhere the alms and full of hope. Ohio will certainly go for Vallandigham over a opposition all bogus voting and all military intimidation to the contrary notwithstanding. Pennsylvania is sure for Woodard. Wisconsin is making a gallant fight against the Abolitionists and bolting semi-Abolition Democrats combined, and well informed gentlemen from that State express confidence that the Democracy will triumph.

There is not a traitor in Jeff. Davidson who does not most devoutly hope for the same result.

The Richmond Examiner in a recent editorial urged another advance of Lee's army into Pennsylvania as an electioneering movement in their behalf. It says:

The success of the Northern Democratic party would be no longer doubtful should Gen. Lee once more advance on Meade.

Gen. Lee must turn politician as well as warrior, and we believe he will prove the most successful politician the Confederacy has ever produced. He may so move and direct his army as to produce political results which in their bearing on the war will prove more effectual than the bloodiest victories.

Let him drive Meade into Washington, and he will again raise the spirits of the Democrats, confirm their timid and give confidence to their wavering. He will embolden the Peace party should he again cross the Potomac, for he will show the people of Pennsylvania how little security they have from Lincoln for the protection of their homes.

The "misguided people of the South" are looking with anxious solicitation to the result of today's election in Ohio and Pennsylvania and if this New Light is a true prophet, their anticipations will be more than realized.

The Draft.

According to the correspondence published in the St. Paul papers between Gov. Swift and Provost Marshal General Fry, it appears that orders were issued on Sept. 25th, directing a draft to be made in the two districts of this State for 735 and 390 men respectively.

Gov. Swift, in reply, proposes to raise a volunteer regiment of cavalry, for frontier service in this State, to take the place of the First Regiment of Mounted Rangers (whose term of enlistment expires in December proximo) and the draft was suspended to give us the opportunity to contribute our portion in volunteers. This request was complied with and the day of the commencement of the draft postponed to the 25th inst., which is Sunday, at which time the Provost Marshal gives notice the draft will be proceeded with without fail.

Says that both, able, radical paper, the Nashville Union—the organ of Gov. Johnson: The Copperheads in the North and the Confederates in the South are both working for the same end. The aim of each is to perpetuate slavery. The loss of slave property fills the Copperheads and the Confederates with the same regret. Neither care one jot for law or Constitution, Federal or State Government, Union or disunion, further than they contribute to maintain the aristocracy of slavery. They fawn and crouch at the feet of slavery and leg its crumb of patronage as spaniels fawn upon their masters, and look wistfully for a provost marshal.

—Provost Marshal General Fry has just perfected his arrangements for the arrest of deserters. Having a large number of deputies in addition to the Provost Marshals in all the Congressional Districts, the chances of escape are greatly diminished. The reward for a deserter is increased to $300. It is determined to curtail such parties with the utmost rigor, in order, if possible, to prevent desertion.

The Draft in the State.

The quota required in the whole State 1425, but the fifty per cent. additional, which are to be drawn to provide for exemptions, makes the entire number to be drafted in Minnesota 2,137.

Of this number 735 are to be drawn in the First District, with fifty per cent. added, making 1,102.

In the Second District the quota is 690—but fifty per cent. added swells the number to 1,035.

The following table shows the number to be drawn from each county of the Second District, and it includes the fifty per cent.:

The Chicago Tribune says, Dick Merriek, the secessionist, has gone to Ohio to make speeches for Vallandigham.

Each day he telegraphs back to the Chicago organ of Jeff. Davis a glowing account of his eloquence and of the copperhead crowd that he harangues. All the meetings are stated to number 50,000.

That is the standing figure—50,000 copperheads in each county. If brag and tall lying could elect Val, he would have a sure thing of it. But the result next Tuesday will settle the hash of the treason-shrieker. Ohio will give Brown on the home vote a larger majority than it rolled up for Lincoln over the opposition. Merriek might as well have staid away and saved his breath to cool his porridge.

The St. Louis Democrat's Springfield special says: It was stated and believed among the army men there that Maj. Gen. Pope would be assigned to the command of the Department of Missouri.

—An apple-tree at Geneva, Iowa, belonging to Mr. Canforth, has a full crop of fruit, and is also full of blossoms just opened.

The Fault of Not Re-enforcing Rosecrans.

The effort to throw the responsibility of the failure to re-enforce Gen. Rosecrans in season upon Gen. Burnside, has proved abortive. It has now been fully ascertained that Gen. Halleck, although urged at the time from high quarters to order Burnside to join Rosecrans immediately after occupying Knoxville, declined to do so, and only issued the orders, for failing to obey which Burnside has been censured, when it was plainly too late.

The defeat of Rosecrans has come upon us in consequence of the steady practice of Halleck—

1. To scatter our armies.

2. To fight battles, accordingly, with fewer men than the enemy have, who concentrate theirs.

3. To have no two armies move together, which lets the rebels concentrate first against one and then against the other.

Since the day Halleck was commissioned to his present position he has been a drag weight to the Union cause.—Chicago Tribune.

A three-line item, giving the names of the men who are to be drafted, is not full to impress every one with a sense of the danger of the situation, and the fact that the Union cause is in the hands of the Union cause.

The State of Maryland produces this year about 5,000 hogsheads of tobacco, which is 45,000 less than the usual product.—Chicago Times.

This "three-line item" is a three-line item, and is only "giving the newspaper rounds" of the copperhead press. The falling off in Maryland is not one-fourth so great as stated in the copperhead item. Every black man who volunteers saves a white man from the draft, and as one or the other must go what difference does it make whether tobacco be cultivated by negroes or whites? And it may be asked who but a copperhead would put the growth of the "stinking weed" above the preservation of the Union? If Stanton and Schenck have secured, in spite of secession opposition, two or three brigades of stalwart black soldiers in Maryland, they are richly entitled to the thanks of every loyal man.

Sad Accident.—A young man named Abbott, just arrived here from Indiana, met with a very severe, if not fatal accident on Monday last. The contents of a shot gun were lodged in his bowels in the following manner: The gun was lying on a bed, when taking it by the muzzle in order to remove it from the bed, the hammer was raised and the contents discharged into his person. It is thought he will not survive, though at last accounts he was easier.—Hastings Independent.

—The Seventh, Ninth and Tenth Regiments have left the State during the past week for the seat of war.

A gray haired rebel sinner lately returned to Memphis after an absence of two years, and thus summed up his grievances:

"My farm has been pillaged, my cotton field has been burned, my slaves have escaped, three of my boys have died, and my old woman hasn't had a fire tooth comb for more than two years."

Was there ever sorrow like his?

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

THURSDAY, NOV. 26, TO BE SET APART AS A DAY OF NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.

By the President of the United States: a Proclamation.

The year that is drawing toward its close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies. To these bounties, which are so constantly enjoyed that we are prone to forget the sources from which they come, others have been added which are of so extraordinary a nature that they can not fail to penetrate and soften even the heart which is habitually insensible to the ever watchful providence of Almighty God.

In the midst of a civil war of unequalled magnitude and severity, which has sometimes seemed to invite and provoke the aggressions of foreign states, peace has been preserved with foreign nations, order has been maintained, the laws have been respected and obeyed, and harmony has prevailed everywhere, except in the theater of military conflict; while that theater has been greatly contracted by the advancing armies and navies of the Union.

The needful diversion of wealth and strength from the fields of peaceful industry to the defense of the nation, has not arrested the plow, the shuttle or the ship. The axe has enlarged the borders of our settlements, and the mines, as well of iron and coal, as of the precious metals, have yielded even more abundantly than heretofore. Population has steadily increased, notwithstanding the waste that has been made in the camp, the siege, and the battle-field; and the country, rejoicing in the consciousness of augmented strength and vigor, is permitted to expect continuance of years, with a large increase of freedom.

No human counsel hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked out, these things. These are the gifts of the Most High God, who, while dealing with us in anger for our sins, hath nevertheless remembered mercy.

It has seemed to me meet and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently and gratefully acknowledged by the people of the United States, with music and song, and with thanksgiving and prayer to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the heavens; and I recommend to them that while offering up the ascriptions justly due Him for such singular deliverances and blessings, they do also, with humble penitence for our national perverseness and disobedience, commend to His tender care all those who have become widows, orphans or sufferers in the lamentable civil strife in which we are unavoidably engaged, and fervently implore the interposition of the Almighty hand to heal the wounds of the nation, and to restore it, as soon as may be consistent with the Divine purposes, to the full enjoyment of harmony, peace, tranquillity and union.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this third day of October, in the year of our Lord 1863, and of the independence of the United States the eighty-eighth.

A. LINCOLN.

By the President:

WM. H. SEWARD, Sec. of State.

General Thomas.

Glorious Thomas was the tower of strength that saved the army. On Saturday I saw him for a moment, as the rattle of fearful battle rolled in front of him. Involuntarily I stopped to look at one of the grandest life pictures I ever saw, though one of the least pretensions. Sitting on his tranquil horse and watching every sign of the contest with a serene air which I would have deemed impossible in mortal man, he was such a scene, I felt, a creature for such a scene. It was a picture of ineffable courage, tempered with wisdom and gentleness. Angelo would have thrown aside his chisel if he could have seen Thomas as I saw him, the incarnation of manly beauty.

The last time I had seen him he was giving a weary stranger on the march patient direction where to find his regiment. He did this with a kindly and gentle air which struck me at the time as the symbol of the true gentleman. Known even as a boy as "Old George Thomas," from the purity and open integrity of his character, it is not strange that Providence selected him to wrench safety, if not victory, out of a lost battle—the safety, perhaps, of the nation itself.

The Lewisston (Me.) Journal records the case of a young man volunteering for a substitute for a friend who had been drafted, because that friend ought not to leave his family, and the young man felt he owed personal service to his country. Having accumulated one thousand five hundred dollars, he made a will, devising, in case he should not return, $700 to the Maine Wesleyan Seminary and $300 to the American Bible Society—the rest to be divided among his brothers and sisters. Having thus arranged his private affairs, he left for the field of battle.

A recent visitor to Fitz Greene Halleck at Guilford, Conn., says the poet is in excellent health and homed everywhere. "His eye is as bright, and he is as full of fun and anecdote as in days gone by."

Near Warren, Conn., is posted on a cotton fence, the following:

Notis.—Know kows is aloud in these medders, my man or woman lettin thar have a gitt in my medders after and shal have his tail cut off by me Obndial Rogers.

FROM CAPT. FISK'S PARTY.

REPORTED ATTACK ON THEM BY THE SIOUX.

Forty of their number said to be killed.

Editorial correspondence of the St. Paul Press.

RED LAKE CROSSING, Sept. 30.

From James McFetridge, who arrived from Pembina last night, I learn that Half-breed, just arrived from the plains—brought the terribly painful intelligence that the party under Capt. Fisk had been attacked by Sioux and forty of them killed.

The scene of the murder was near the Big Bend of the Missouri. The pistols and carbines belonging to the party were in the hands of the Sioux. They also had a cap which a Mr. George Gear—who had accompanied Capt. Fisk's party from St. Cloud to Devil's Lake, and there left it for St. Joe, and is now employed on the plains as a trader for Ch. Bottineau of that place—recognized as belonging to Capt. Fisk.

Mr. McFetridge has no doubt of the truth of the report. He brings no further particulars than above given. The date of the catastrophe he does not know. I wish I could find reasons for distrusting the truth of this intelligence, which will fall with such terrible, crushing weight on the hearts of mothers and sisters in our midst.

The Half-breeds also brought in news of Sully's surprise and slaughter of the Sioux camp at Whitestone Hill. They say he killed a great many.

The treaty negotiations here are progressing finely, but my engagements have prevented my forwarding details by this mail.

How to SELECT FLOUR.—First.

Look at the color: if it is white with a slightly yellowish or straw colored tint, buy it. If it is very white, with a bluish cast, or with white specks in it, refuse it.

Second—Examine its adhesiveness; wet and knead a little of it in your fingers; if it works soft and cricky, it is poor.

Throw a little lump of dry flour upon a dry, smooth, perpendicular surface; if it falls like powder, it is bad.

Fourth—Squeeze some of the flour in your hand; if it retains the shape given by the pressure, that, too, is a good sign. Flour that will stand all these tests is safe to buy. These modes are given by old flour dealers, and they pertain to a matter that concerns every body, namely, the staff of life.

Capt. Fisk's Party.—The Rev. Mr. Torbett, Thomas H. Merrill, and one other resident of Taylor's Falls, whose name we do not now remember, were members of this ill-fated party.

Hon. James S. Norris of this county, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has taken the stump. He, in connection with Judge Meeker, of Hennepin, is announced to speak in the southern counties of the State.

MINNESOTA.—This is the title of a new song, dedicated to the memory of the victims of the Indian massacre of 1862, published by Manger Bros., St. Paul. The words are by Capt. R. H. Clittenden. Music by Prof. Frank Wood.

From a long list of casualties published in the report of Col. George of the Second Regiment, we observed three from Stillwater; viz: Company F, 1st Sergeant G. W. Wallace, wounded severely; Sergt. Paul Caviezel, slightly. Company G, Jacob Siebert, killed.

PERSONAL.—Dr. J. M. Harlow arrived in town yesterday on one of his annual three days' visits. He is looking as though Minnesota climate could not do much to improve his physical condition which is more than can be said of every denizen of the Old Bay State. We bid you welcome, Doctor, and wish you could stay longer.

"A genius out West has offered to sell Barnum the galleons on which were hung thirty-eight condemned Sioux Indians, for the paltry sum of $5,000," says Gleason's Literary Companion.

We think we have seen this gentleman hereabouts, and a look at his jolly good face is enough to "make you sick,"—McKusick.—Mankato Union.

The genius who could display so much verandry must be a JONATHAN. Eh?

WASHINGTON COUNTY SPOKE AT THE STATE FAIR.—Our county was not so fully represented in the State Fair as it ought to have been. Among the list of premiums, however, we notice the following:

J. M. Munger, Cottage Grove, two mares, first premium.
A. J. Schofield, Washington county, one two-year old colt, weekly paper.
R. H. Bennett, Cottage Grove, Washington county, one merino lamb, first premium.

John Atkinson, Newport, Washington county, one pen merino lambs, first premium.

Capt. Roscoe G. Hersey.—A telegram was received in this city on Friday last briefly announcing the death of Capt. Roscoe G. Hersey, without giving any particulars. Capt. Hersey, the eldest son of Gen. Samuel F. Hersey, of the firm of Hersey, Staples & Hall of this city, was a young man, hardly twenty-three years of age, yet holding the responsible position of Captain of a battery from his native State—Maine. Although never a resident, in his frequent visits to our State, he has made hosts of personal friends, beside those who honored him for his father's sake, who will mourn his untimely death. Gen. Hersey was in Chicago when he received the mournful intelligence of his son's decease and proceeded immediately to Washington to recover the remains and convey it for burial to his home in Bangor, Maine.

New Goods.—During the week our merchants have been receiving their new goods for the winter trade and last night the steamer Wilson arrived with the heaviest freight of the season. This morning the levee is covered, and the side-walks blocked up with boxes. We have not time to call attention separately to all the new advertisements that appear in this issue of the Messenger.

Mr. Thorne, it will be observed, has got a new supply of new and beautiful winter goods, ladies' bonnets, hats, skating caps, nubbies, hoods and veils. The ladies can do no better than to call and examine his stock.

Messrs. Levy & Daniels usually are second to no dry goods merchants, either in this city or Saint Paul, in the variety and style of their goods, and this year they have got more goods than ever, prettier goods than ever, and better goods than ever before. They also have a large assortment of boots, shoes, crockery and glass ware, millinery goods and groceries.

Joe. E. Schlenk, merchant tailor, is also out with a new advertisement. He has all kinds of Gents' furnishing goods, hats, caps, boots and shoes and other things too numerous to mention. His stock of ready made clothing is mostly manufactured by himself and the work will be warranted. He sells cheap. Give him a call.

A New York firm also advertises Leibig's Essential Coffee, which is said to be an excellent article. It is recommended by Fowler & Wells of the Phrenological Journal.

USERS.—Unite your good flour with D. B. DeLand & Co.'s Chemical Salt-ratax if you want extra bread, biscuit and pastry of all kinds. Unite they rise, divided they fall.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.—Next Saturday is the day on which three distinguished citizens of the State will address the citizens of Stillwater and vicinity upon the political questions of the day. Col. Stephen Miller, the Republican Union nominee for Governor, Hon. M. S. Wilkinson, United States Senator, and Hon. Ignatius Donnelly, M. C., are the speakers announced, and their well known reputation will warrant all who may attend an ample reward. We expect to see a large assembly of the people.

THERE COMES A TIME.

There comes a time when we grow old

And like a sunset down the sea

Slope gradual, and the night wind cold,

Come whispering and chillingly:

And lo! we are gray

And eyes of old and the behold

The leaves all dreary drift away,

And lips of coral softly say,

There comes a time when we grow old.

Which leaped as leaps the laughing main,

Are dead to all save memory.

As prisoner in his dungeon chain:

And dawn of day,

Half past of day,

The moon had long darkness rolled,

And by the embers warm and gray,

I hear a voice in whisper say:

There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when manhood's prime

Is shrouded in the mist of years

And beauty, fading like a dream,

Had passed away in silent tears:

And then how dark!

But oh! the spark,

That kindled truth to love and good,

Still burns with clear and steady ray,

And fond affections, lingering, say,

There comes a time when we grow old.

There comes a time when laughing Spring

And golden Summer cease to be,

And we are put on the Autumn's robe,

To tread the last of life's reality:

But now the slope,

Beyond the sunset sea behind,

While watchers whisper through the night,

There is a time when we grow old.

The Case of Missouri.

From the Independent.

The loyal people of Missouri have laid their case before the Government and the people, and it is evidently one which demands vigorous measures for relief.

The accumulation of evils which they are enduring cannot be submitted to with patience when their situation is so exactly precarious. The mainly and earnest address of the delegates to the people, and the fact that not but common attention. We hope the President will not be led by prejudiced advisers to undervalue the importance of addressing their loyal and patriotic people. The necessity of immediate and effective action.

The address shows conclusively that the palliative course hitherto pursued has only made matters worse, and that a more decisive treatment is imperatively required.

The delegation of seventy respectable and responsible men, citizens of fifty-seven counties, which embrace three-fourths of the population of the State, and representing all interests and avocautions save rebellion and slavery, is admirable evidence of the loyalty and unconditional and hearty loyalty of the people of Missouri. They declare the

unconditional and hearty loyalty of the people of Missouri. They declare the

unconditional and hearty loyalty of the people of Missouri. They declare the

New Arrangement.

On account of my connection with the public service and the necessity of devoting my attention to other duties, I have deemed it best to discontinue my editorial duties in the Stillwater Messenger. I have accordingly done so, and until my return and subsequent announcement by Messrs. STICKNEY & EASTON, and "What is the result?"

I expect to return and again greet my old friends and patrons, who have become so endeared to me by social and business associations extending through the past years.

A settlement of all outstanding accounts now becomes imperative. These are left in the hands of A. B. STICKNEY, Esq., who is fully authorized to collect the same. New arrangements will go into effect on the first day of October 1863.

STILLWATER, Oct. 10, 1863.

Union Men, are You Ready?

One week ago to-day the people of the three great States of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana moved to a glorious victory at the polls. In each of the two former States, a general election, and an overwhelming majority given for the Union candidate; and in the latter State the county elections show large gains in the same direction.

Two weeks from to-day, the THIRD DAY OF NOVEMBER.

(not the tenth, as has been largely reported) is election day in Minnesota. The question we ask you is, Union men, are you ready? Are the Union men of Washington county ready to give their proportion of at least ten thousand majority in the State for the Union ticket? We must do this and more too. In our county our opponents are apparently doing nothing, and we are marching to an easy victory. But it is not so in every section of the State. In those districts which elect a Senator this year, quite a respectable opposition is being made. The Democratic Copperhead candidate for Governor is on the stump. John B. Brislin is on the stump—when he is in a condition to stand there, Judge Meeker is on another stump, and the Hon. would-be Lieutenant Governor, although he has not found it convenient to mount the rostrum, has written a lengthy letter which has been published in their public prints.

In these districts, rest assured, that every Copperhead vote that can be begged, bought or stolen will be pulled, and although they will not have a majority in a single county, it becomes us who have no opposition to do our full proportion toward the aggregate Union majority which Minnesota must give. Let the next two weeks be weeks of toil. Let every Union man constitute himself a committee of one to get out Union votes. Look over the ground—see where the voters are—know that they understand who are the Union nominees, and the day of election is, in season to arrange their business so that they can leave their work to go to the polls.

The Confusion of Tongues.

The introduction of Col. Robertson's resolution into their State convention has proved a Babel to the Democratic party, and such a confusion of tongues probably has never been known since that notable day when the sons of Noah were stopped in their presumptuous folly, as is now exhibited in the speeches and writings of Democratic politicians. A large number—and we think a majority—of the rank and file repudiated the whole action of the convention on the one hand, and have not yet been induced to their party allegiance; but not so with the leaders.

Some have satisfied their consciences with one excuse, and some with another; until all, or nearly all, are to-day found battling for the ticket. But it is a matter of curiosity to see upon what logic—what a length of premises and conclusions—some of the more squeamish rest their faith in copperheadism. For instance a correspondent of the Shakopee Argus cases his mind in a more than two column article, in which he appears to satisfy himself, at least that Col. Robertson's resolution is a cunningly devised sophistry, meaning any thing but what it appears to mean to men of ordinary understanding. It is a very luminous, and the editor, although dissenting from the views of the writer, says it is very able.

After pointing out numerous Gorgan-headed assumptions and implications in the resolution, as rejected by the convention, he treats us to a version of the two first clauses which he says would have been acceptable and in accordance with doctrine of the Democratic party, which is as follows:

That we look to the army and navy of the Union to maintain the Constitution and enforce the laws against organized armed resistance over every inch of territory in the rebellious States, without any compromise with rebels in arms.

That we look to the loyal and faithful people of the South, in their own voluntary way, and without constraint or control by military power, to resume the administration of their State governments and their position in the Union, under the constitution, State and National.

By reference to the original, we apprehend that most of our readers will conclude this writer has found a distinction without a difference in the first clause, while the second clause of his version speaks for itself.

According to this expounder of Democratic faith, therefore, their State convention acted wisely in rejecting Col. Robertson's resolution, and its wisdom is now perfectly apparent although at first he "didn't see it."

The Northern Statesman is on another tack altogether. It animadverted upon Col. Miller's early published address to the soldiers as misrepresenting the sentiments of the Democratic convention by asserting that said convention rejected Col. Robertson's resolution. The facts are the very reverse of those stated in the letter. The State convention virtually accepted the resolution mentioned, and only rejected it nominally, or by a misunderstanding when the vote to strike out was called for.

The sentiment of the convention was expressed by the rejection of the only resolution before them that conflicted in sentiment with the resolution presented by Mr. Robertson.

Really, Mr. Statesman, this is the most remarkable news we have heard yet. We are glad to learn that your party did make a mistake, and its published proceedings misrepresent and belie the doctrine and the sentiments of the party. But by the by, if this is honestly so, wouldn't it be well for you to place the word LIE over the Democratic platform, which we observe you keep standing in your paper? It would be kind also to inform Mr. H. T. Wells of this mistake. Judging from his speeches he has not heard of it.

A Bounty of $400 to Veteran Volunteers in the Mounted Rangers.

By general orders No. 74 from the Adjutant General's Office, all able-bodied men who have heretofore served for not less than nine months and have been honorably discharged and can pass the examination of the mustering officer may be enlisted, and when mustered in will be entitled to all the benefits provided by general orders No. 101 of the War Department for recruiting Veteran Volunteers, and in accordance with that order will receive one month's pay in advance and a bounty and premium of four hundred and two dollars.

The President of the Minneapolis, Faribault and Cedar Valley Rail Road has completed negotiations with the Johnston Iron-works of Pennsylvania for the purchase of sufficient railroad iron to lay the track for a distance of eighty miles. The rails are to be manufactured at the coming winter and will be shipped on the opening of navigation next spring.

Wool Growing in Minnesota.

The great and increasing attention given by Minnesota farmers to the importation of sheep and the growing of wool in this State, is of late a striking fact to demand notice.

Upwards of 10,000 sheep have been brought across the Mississippi River, at La Crosse alone, destined for the southern counties of the State, and at all the county fairs, as well as at the recent State fair, the best specimens of stock exhibited, and those the most interesting to every body, were the specimens of fine woolled sheep.

The excitement now existing in this State with regard to wool growing is a healthy and natural one, stimulated by high price of wool and the fact that our climate and soil are peculiarly adapted to the successful raising of sheep and wool. At all times domestic wool growing has proved a profitable business on lands distant from eastern markets, and at no time has it been so remunerative as it is now and will be in the future.

The consumption of wool is so largely increased that the production might be doubled without injuring the market. In fact, so abundant are our resources for the proper and economical management of this branch of husbandry, that wool might be grown at half the present prices, and the farmer realize a better profit than from exclusive wheat raising at present rates.

Let every farmer secure a small-wooled sheep at least, and gradually turn his attention to the raising of wool.

The Fisk Tragedy.—It is now believed by many that the reported massacre of Capt. Fisk and his party is a piece of sensational news without foundation in fact. God grant that the horrible account which was published last week may prove to be false.

James Buchanan has fled the country. He left so silently, that the first we hear of it is the announcement of his arrival in London, which comes back to us in the bulging of Foreign News.

The La Crosse Republican states that the Southern Minnesota R. R. company have also secured and will bring forward this winter the iron for the first ten miles of track from that place north westerly toward Rochester.

New wheat was selling at Mankato last week for 40 and 45 cents a bushel. All the warehouses there are still crowded with last year's crop. Will it not be a happy day for the farmers of the southern part of the State when the railroad from Winona shall be completed to the Minnesota?

General Order No. 73.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE STATE OF MINNESOTA, St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 12, 1863.

Authority having been obtained from the War Department to organize a regiment of cavalry, to take the place of the First Regiment Mounted Rangers, whose term of enlistment will soon expire, to serve for three years or during the war, the Commander-in-Chief of the military forces of the State, confident that our citizens will not prove second in devotion to the country to those of any other State, and with the necessity of sufficiently protecting our people against the savages who have spread death and desolation over our frontier settlements, hereby directs the organization of a regiment of cavalry to be designated as The First Regiment of Cavalry Minnesota Volunteers, to serve for the period above named.

All men recruited for this regiment before the commencement of the draft now ordered, will be credited to the State on that draft.

An early organization of the regiment being necessary, it is recommended that the several counties form at once military companies for the purpose of encouraging enlistments and assisting in the immediate organization of the regiment. The regiment will be organized as follows:

- TWELVE COMPANIES OF TROOPS.
- 1 Colonel,
 - 1 Lieutenant Colonel,
 - 3 Majors,
 - 1 Surgeon,
 - 2 Assistant Surgeons,
 - 1 Regimental Adjutant, (an extra Lieut.),
 - 1 Regimental Quartermaster, (an extra Lieutenant),
 - 1 Regimental Commissary, (an extra Lieutenant),
 - 1 Chaplain,
 - 1 Veterinary Surgeon,
 - 1 Sergeant Major,
 - 1 Quartermaster Sergeant,
 - 1 Commissary Sergeant,
 - 2 Hospital Stewards,
 - 1 Saddle Sergeant,
 - 1 Chief Trumpeter,

COMPANY OR TROOP OF CAVALRY.

- 1 Captain,
- 1 First Lieutenant,
- 1 Second Lieutenant,
- 1 First Sergeant,
- 1 Quartermaster Sergeant,
- 1 Commissary Sergeant,
- 3 Sergeants,
- 8 Corporals,
- 2 Trumpeters,
- 2 Farriers or blacksmiths,
- 1 Saddle,
- 1 Waggoner, and
- 100 privates—minimum,
- 175 privates—maximum.

All companies and parts of companies raised under this order will report at Fort Snelling, Minnesota.

Subsistence and lodging of recruits from the time of their enlistment, prior to their muster into service, will be paid for by the General Government, at a rate not exceeding fifty cents per day.

Necessary transportation of recruits will be paid for at the current rates of stage and steamboat fare.

One Second Lieutenant for each company in said regiment will be appointed and mustered into the United States service, who shall have authority to muster in recruits as they are enlisted. If any recruit shall be enlisted by such officer, who shall afterward, on medical inspection, prove to have been obviously unfit for the service at the time of his enlistment, all expenses caused thereby shall be paid by such officer, to be stopped against him from any payment that may be coming to him from the government thereafter. Any officer thus appointed and mustered shall only be entitled to be paid on the muster and pay roll of his company, and should he fail to secure an organized company within such reasonable time as may be specified in his letters of appointment, his name may be transferred to some other company, his appointment revoked and he discharged without pay, unless it should be deemed proper to give him a position in the consolidated company to which his men have been transferred, or to the company, as in the regular army, will be made out in triplicate by such recruiting officers, one copy of which will be sent to the Adjutant General of the State, one to the Adjutant of the regiment, and one will be kept by the recruiting officer.

Recruits will be sent to the regimental rendezvous at Fort Snelling at least as often as once a week, when they will be immediately examined by the regimental Surgeon, and if found unfit for duty by reason of permanent disability, will be discharged from service forthwith by the Surgeon, who will report such discharges to the Adjutant General of the State and also to the Adjutant of the regiment, noting particularly those cases where the disability was obvious at the time of enlistment.

The muster rolls of each company will be made out by the Adjutant of the regiment on a list to be furnished by the Adjutant General of the State, together with the articles of enlistment furnished him by the recruiting officer, and will note upon it the names of all persons discharged by the Surgeon for permanent disability, designating particularly those cases where the disability was apparent at the time of enlistment.

Recruiting officers appointed and commissioned under these orders are hereby directed to send a list of the head-quarters, at least once a week, the articles of enlistment of the men recruited by them during the preceding week.

The commissions of officers who fail to comply with these orders will be immediately revoked, and they will be immediately removed from office.

A premium of two dollars will be paid by the United States for each accepted recruit who volunteers for said regiment.

There will be paid also in advance—besides one month's pay to each recruit—the sum of twenty-five dollars, being one-fourth of the amount of bounty allowed by law, and payment to be made upon the mustering of each company, to which such recruits belong, into the service of the United States.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief, OSKAR MALMROS, Adjutant General.

Country papers publish once.

The editor of the North Star is running on the Union ticket for Assemblyman.

A private soldier of company D, Tenth Regiment—George Johnson by name—having been left at a boarding house in this city on account of sickness, destitute of means wherewith to pay his bill, and the fact coming to the knowledge of C. C. Miller, that officer generously contribute the sum necessary to liquidate the debt. We give publicity to the incident at the request of a grateful soldier, and not because the donor imagined or desired that it should come to the ears of any other than the recipient of the kindness himself.—Winona Rep.

LEIBIG'S ESSENTIAL COFFEE

The most Healthy.

The most Economical.

The most Delicious.

PREPARATION OF OFFEE

IN THE WORLD.

OLD OR NEW.

This Coffee is prepared under a formula from the great German Chemist,

PROFESSOR LEIBIG,

and gives the essential full strength and delicious flavor of OLD GOVERNMENT JAVA COFFEE, which is the only quality of Java coffee in its preparation, without any of that narcotic quality which so sadly damages the nervous system in the use of even the best grades of coffee as ordinarily prepared.

2d. It gives the essential tonic and diuretic elements of Dandelion, without the "herby," coarse taste so disgusting, and yet always found in the ordinary Dandelion Coffee.

It is known to all acquainted with chemistry, that the essence, or oil, or substance may be given it, when properly and scientifically obtained from any herb or plant, is a far different article from that produced by putting that plant into water and boiling it out—permitting the escape of the most exquisite and reliable strength and leaving the coarse and herby drugs precipitated or in solution.

So this preparation combines the exquisite aroma of the Java Coffee, with the highest essential excellence of the most choice Dandelion—distilling the spirit without the grosser earthly body of both; thereby avoiding the deleterious effects of both, and becoming at the same time the most healthy.

The most Economical.

The most Delicious.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

1862. 1862. SPRING TRADE!

CARL & CO.
RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE TO THE Citizens of Stillwater and the St. Croix Valley that they are now receiving and offer for inspection and patronage, the largest and best selected stock of

Drugs and Medicines
that has ever been for sale here; and our selection being made with care, every article will be of the highest quality. Our stock of

Chemicals and Extracts will embrace every article that the medical practitioner can require, and the attention of Physicians is particularly called to our stock in this branch of our business. All of our tinctures and preparations will be in right accordance with the formulae of the U. S. Dispensary, and given in full and complete accordance with the latest and best authorities.

WINDOW GLASS & GLASSWARE
we get direct from Philadelphia by river, thereby insuring the best quality, and at the lowest possible price.

COAL OIL LAMPS,
Lamp Shades, Chimneys, &c., we make specially, and to order, in the State can offer such opportunities for selection, or at each price.

Carbon Oil
will be the purest and best the market affords, and in

Paints, Oils and Dye Stuffs,
Our stock will be complete. Our Paint, White wash, Dyeing, House, Green, Blue, Red, Yellow, Cloth, Hair, Nail, Tooth and other

PATENT MEDICINES,
All of which will be kept in full supply, and our Perfumery, Cosmetics, Hair Oils, &c., will be found in ample stock and of the best quality and freshest styles. Our stock of Tobaccoes, Cigars and Snuff will comprise the choicest varieties, with Mechernum, Bitter Root, China, and a large assortment of Fancy and Common Pipes.

STATIONERY
Will be kept in good assortment. Also,
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, &c.,
With fixtures for hanging Curtains.

We have also on hand a large assortment of Miscellaneous Articles,
Consisting in part of Pocket Knives, Scissors, Playing Cards, Scales of all kinds, grade ground, Pencils, Pen nibs, Stationery, Folio, water-proof Blacking, Whips, Violin Strings, Violin Sticks, Guitar strings, Military Belting, Glasses, Tumblers, Goblets, Etc., Etc., Etc.,
Wine and Champagne Glasses, Bird Cages, Seed
Boxes, Bird Baths, Bird Fans, Candlesticks, Concentrated Lye, Soda, Saleratus, starch,
Corn starch, Essence of Carbon, Dog Collars,
Combs of all kinds, Garden seeds, Fishing
Tackle, Hooks, Pike's water-proof Gun,
Caps, Steel Gun Nipples, Demijohns, &c., &c.

Baron's Coal Oil Lamps and Lanterns.
To be used without chimneys—a new and good article.

WINE AND LIQUORS.
We will keep a large supply of the purest and best that can be purchased in New York—comprising in part, French Brandy, Holland Gin, St. Croix Rum, New England Rum, Port, Burgundy, Malaga, Cherry, White and Black Wines, Scotch, Irish, Monaghan, Bourbon, Rye and Common Whiskies—V.O.L. Schnappans and Cordons Gin, &c., &c.

AND FURTHER,
As there is no reason why Goods should not be sold here as low as in St. Paul, our prices will compare favorably with the lowest that obtain in this city—and in order to enable us to do this, our terms from this date will be STRICTLY CASH.

In conclusion, we respectfully ask of the public
an examination of our goods and prices.

AN UNDENIABLE FACT.
LEWY & DANIELS
have the largest and best assorted stock of DRY GOODS
IN THE ST. CROIX VALLEY.

And they are selling at prices that will satisfy the most economical. They have received good, and reliable, and in order to enable us to do this, our terms from this date will be STRICTLY CASH.

In conclusion, we respectfully ask of the public
an examination of our goods and prices.

WALL PAPER.
We have in store the largest assortment of the latest and newest styles of WALL PAPERS in the city.

JUST TO HAND,
A large lot of hoop skirts for Misses and Ladies, skirt heads, all colors. Mosquito Net, and other desirable goods.

CROCKERY AND GLASSWARE
We have on hand
TEA & COFFEE CUPS,
PLATES AND DISHES,
OF ALL SIZES,
BOWLS, MOLASSES PITCHERS,
TEA SETS, DINNER SETS,
TOILET SETS,
And all other styles of Crockery, making our assortment complete.

Call and take a look at our style and prices, before going to St. Paul or any other place, as we can and will sell as low as "any other man."

LEWY & DANIELS.

DON'T BE MISLED.
Don't go to St. Paul and purchase Carpets when you can buy better goods at lower prices in Stillwater. This is an undeniable fact, and an examination of our goods will prove it.

LEWY & DANIELS.
